Beryllium May Be Found Here In Northfield Hills

From the Bureau of Mines at Washington comes word that "beryllium" may become a much-used commodity. Paul M. Tyler, chief engineer of the bureau's metals division, said the increasing use of beryllium in copper alloys and in carbon steel for industrial uses requiring very light metals with a high flexibility and high tensile strength was continuing.

Bureau reports say that, next to the Black Hills of South Dakota, deposits in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts are among the most commercially practical sources. The Maine State Planning Commission recently started a canvass of all known sources in the State to locate possible export quantities.

Some sources have been found in British India and in South Africa, but they were still insufficient to encourage rapid development of industrial uses. Prices had been maintained at a fairly constant level in the last two years.

In a recent trade survey 65 per cent of the manufacturers of scales and instruments reported the use of beryllium in some part of their products; in other groups reporting, beryllium was used by 25 per cent of the airplane makers, 12 per cent of the manufacturers of heating and ventilating equipment and 15 per cent of the pump and valve concerns.

Mr. Taylor said that, alloyed with carbon steel, beryllium was used in springs requiring a high degree of accuracy.

Beryl, the mineral containing beryllium, is found, the bureau reported, in Kennebec, Oxford, Sagadahoc, Androscoggin and Hancock counties in Maine; Worcester, Franklin, Hampden, and Hampshire counties in Massachusetts, and Cheshire, Grafton, Merrimack and Sullivan counties in New Hampshire.

In the specific places of Franklin county, Northfield is especially mentioned but the editor of the Press has not been informed of any specific area. Perhaps some of our citizens may be able to inform our readers of the finding of this material on their premises.

Chosen Assistant At Northfield Post Office

Miss Adelia Cembalasty has been selected for the position of Assistant Postmaster at the Northfield post office to succeed Miss Ruth Anderson who has resigned. Miss Cembalasty is a graduate of Northfield High, Bay Path Institute of Springfield, and McCarthy's School of Accounting in Northampton. There were 22 applications for the position.

Train Will Stop

One of the inconveniences to Northfield patrons of the Boston and Maine railroad this past summer was the fact that the train arriving here in the late evening from New York did not stop. Many local residents and guests of the Northfield Hotel suffered inconvenience. Manager A. Gordon Moody of the hotel took up the matter with the railroad officials and was informed that beginning Thursday (yesterday) the train would hereafter stop to leave off passengers. It is due at the East Northfield station each evening at 9:52.

The 1936 Red Cross Poster

THIS year's American Red Cross poster emphasizes the theme that the Red Cross is "of, by and for the people."

Four million men and women are members of the Red Cross and through their membership dues they support its activities. Only in time of major disaster when needs for relief reach great proportions does the Red Cross ask the public for disaster relief funds. The membership funds represent the financial support of the Red Cross, and in turn this money is used to carry the Red Cross work of mercy to distressed citizens. Membership is open to all, without regard to race, color or creed, and the Red Cross services are given to all, without restriction.

The annual Roll Call for members is held Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11-26. The poster for 1936 is by Walter W. Seaton, noted illustrator and painter of movie and radio stars.

Red Cross Roll Call To Get Under Way By Large Committee

The Red Cross Roll Call is to get under way in Northfield again this year with a large committee under the direction of Mr. Ambert G. Moody as general chairman. On Monday evening, Nov. 9 at 7 o'clock, members of the various committees throughout the county will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Boyden at the Deerfield Academy. Mr. Albert E. Roberts, Executive Secretary of the Northfield Schools will be one of the speakers and it is expected that all persons attending the dinner will enlist as a member and take some active part in the campaign for membership in the Red Cross.

The dates for the annual roll call are from Nov. 11 to the 26. The same procedure will ensue this year as in previous years and members of the local committee will call upon our citizens for their dollar or more and receive their membership card and emblem. Last year the National Red Cross expended more than seven and one-half million dollars of which over five million was for disaster relief.

Northfield has always responded liberally to the appeal of the Red Cross and at the time of the March flood our local relief fund amounted to about $1200 which was spent hereabouts.

A local relief station for emergencies in accident is also located in Northfield at Spencer's with

Girl Disappears After Visit Here; Search Going On

As a member of the Greenfield Girls' club who were extended the privileges of the Seminary swimming pool last week Tuesday, Miss Phyllis Manning of Greenfield disappeared after stating that she would return with another friend rather than with those with whom she had arrived. Nothing was thought of the matter until she failed to put in an appearance at the home of her mother on Federal street, Greenfield. She is the granddaughter of the Chief of Police Manning of Greenfield and an alarm was immediately sent out by press and radio for her.

The radio announcement had caused some consternation because it involved the Seminary although the Northfield Schools were not in the least responsible. The young lady was a member of the group to which courtesies were extended.

It now develops that Miss Manning after leaving the Seminary grounds made her way along the highway to a point near Bennett Meadow bridge, where she hailed Ralph Hale, driving a truck enroute to New York City. She rode with him the entire distance and then returned with him as far as Plainville, Ct. From here she applied for a ride with a passing motorist to Hartford where she stayed at the YWCA overnight and disappeared the next morning in a new outfit of clothes. Greenfield police and State Police are active in making a continued search for her whereabouts. It is expected that she will soon be apprehended.

It was also revealed that a Northfield young lady, Miss Ruth McGowan had left the town last August and her whereabouts were unknown, although it was well known that she had contemplated seeking some position where she might be independent of her people and earn a living. Since, she has been located as working in Springfield.

How We Voted In Tuesday's Election; Results Tabulated

A strenuous campaign and right here in Northfield the battle raged but the tabulated vote, true to all traditions, showed a preponderant Republican tendency. Votes were cast for nearly all parties and for all candidates. The registration of the town was 1015 and a total vote was cast of 943 making a high record of 93 per cent. Republicans and Democrats worked with feverish activity and brought out this unparalleled vote. Transportation was provided for all who wished and even many of our aged and sick came to cast their ballot for their favorite candidate. It was a real election in Northfield and the tabulations were not announced until eleven o'clock with the polls open from ten in the morning to eight at night. John W. ## New "Chevy" Here

Mr. Paul Jordan has just returned from a gathering of Chevrolet dealers in Boston where an exhibit was made of the new Chevrolet model for 1937 which will be shown tomorrow at his place of business on the Hinsdale road. The new model adheres closely to the time-tried principles of Chevrolet construction, but has more power and strength and combines much beauty and grace. The sale of Chevrolet cars in 1936 exceeded the record of any previous year. Mr. Jordan extends an invitation to motorists to call at his place of business and see the new Chevrolet.

The Grange Show "Deacon Dubbs," Is Coming Soon

Announcement has been made that the Grange will put on its usual good play in town on Wednesday, December 19. It's an annual affair and last year's show was a splendid production, winning popular approval.

This year's play is entitled "Deacon Dubbs" and it is a worthwhile effort of Mr. W. B. Hare, the author. The editor has been privileged to read the story of the dramatization and it is full of serious and humorous situations sure to captivate the audience.

The following are the persons taking part and the character assumed: Rev. W. A. White, Deacon Dubbs; Leonard Barnes, his nephew, Amos Colman; Robert Colton, a rogue; Amos Field, Maj. McNutt; Charles Repeta, Deaconomy Jones; Florence Barnes, school teacher; Beryl James as Miss Popover with eyes on the deacon; Fanny Lombard as the rich girl; Doris Miller as Trixie; Erma Moczek as Yennie Jensen; and Mr. Carl Mason as coach and director.

"Deacon Dubbs" will be a good show and will afford the community to spend a profitable evening's entertainment.

Armistice Day Supper, Dance, Wednesday

The annual American Legion Armistice Day supper and dance will be held next Wednesday evening at the Northfield town hall with the prospect of this popular affair being sold out in advance as usual. This annual turkey supper has become a Northfield institution and attracts a large attendance from Franklin county and from the neighboring counties to the North. Sidney Given, commander of Haven H. Spencer Post, is in general charge of arrangements and Mrs. Given will take command in the dining room. Following the supper there will be a popular concert featuring the Reta Ryne Swing band, Ray Adams, popular radio and stage artist, and the Three Melodeers, a vocal harmony trio. Dancing will start at about 7:45.

The Election Over; Democratic Ticket Is Triumphant

Now that the election is over the people have given their verdict in the selection of the Democratic candidates for office. The President is re-elected by a large electoral vote of the states. The state ticket is also Democratic except that Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is elected as our Senator at Washington. Governor Curley was defeated at the hands of his own party. Our good neighbor, John W. Haigis lost the Governorship in a hard fought fight.

The daily press is giving us the definite returns from all over the country as rapidly as announced and we do not go into the details of the campaign except our own (Northfield) vote. In the words of the President, after he was informed of his re-election, he will be the "President of all the people and peace and progress should prevail without any rancor over the bitterness of the campaign." The Democrats will be on trial for their liberalism of procedure.

Peace Mass Meeting

The Franklin County League for Peace announces a Peace Mass Meeting in the senior high school auditorium at Greenfield next Sunday evening at eight o'clock when many churches will unite to witness a pageant by Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University and hear an address by Prof. A. B. Hartmann of Columbia University. The Greenfield High School band will render music. The public are cordially invited to attend this service.

To Foreign Lands

The Northfield Press now finds its way each week to four foreign lands. To Stockholm, Sweden it is welcomed by Mrs. Chas. E. Dickerson; to Vienna in Austria, where it is received by Dr. H. F. Cutler; to Canada and to Guatemala, Central America.

From the present indications it is expected that the list will be enlarged shortly.

The "Messiah" To Be Heard; Mr. Gallagher Director

Mr. Melvin L. Gallagher, choral director of the Northfield Schools at East Northfield, will direct the Greenfield Choral society in a production of Handel's Messiah to be given on Sunday, Dec. 20 in the Greenfield Congregational church. The chorus will consist of about 75 voices and outside singers will be welcome to try out at the weekly Tuesday evening rehearsals held at the church.

Mr. Gallagher, who has been in charge of the Northfield Schools' choral music since 1933 has already conducted two large renditions of this famous Christmas oratorio, one at the Union Theological seminary and the other at the Home Street Presbyterian church in the Bronx, New York City, and has had wide experience in choral work of all kinds. He was born in Capetown, North Dakota and after graduating from Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., attended the Union Theological seminary in New York where he took his degree of Master of Sacred Music in 1933. He has been connected with the Home Street Presbyterian church and the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church in New York and was director of music at Silver Bay, New York, during the summer of 1935. One of his most impressive successes was the rendition of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" at the Northfield Schools last June which attracted an overflow audience to Northfield's large auditorium.

Highway Building Helps Trade!

Whenever $1 is spent for highway work the petroleum industry benefits by the expenditure of 50¢ for material and 50¢ for wages. It is estimated by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The Bureau finds that every $1 of highway expenditure initiates trade activities which result eventually in the distribution of $3.15 for wages and trade in 34 different industries. It is estimated also that for every four men given work on highways, jobs are created for seven additional workers in industries supplying highway-building material, equipment, and services.

PREVENTION OF COLDS by State Dept. of Public Health

The surest way to prevent colds is to avoid contact with the person who is suffering from a cold. This is impossible unless you wish to live a hermit's life. In our modern civilization we can have no isolation. We have contact of some sort with people daily. The person in the office, shop, or school cannot protect himself at all times from contact with those who have colds. Modern transportation makes it likely that even relatively isolated communities will be seeded with the colds of its distant towns. Most of us will continue to be exposed in spite of all our precautions. Infants, old people, and invalids, however, need not run this hazard of exposure if precautions be taken. They can and should be protected because the "simple" cold is more likely to lead to serious consequences in these individuals.

Many colds would be prevented if the sufferer himself took the common-sense precautions to prevent his spreading it. When he has a cold, it is not a time for hospitality — he should neither visit friends nor receive them. He should cough and sneeze in his handkerchief. He should be careful of his distance and manners in talking. The cold will pass in a few days and it is during these early days that the disease is most contagious.

Colds may be prevented by increasing your resistance to them. There are many things which lower your resistance to colds—things which make you more susceptible. The custom of working or living in an overheated room is a predisposing cause of colds. Temperatures of our homes or offices frequently reach 80°. This air causes the mucous membranes of the nose and throat to become so dry and parched that they no longer are able to perform their normal functions. The temperature of your office should be about 68°. Your bedroom should have a much lower temperature.

Rapid changes of temperature, as well as movement and moisture of the air, predispose to colds. Such changes of from hot to cold and from dry to wet weather cannot be avoided in our climate, and in many respects they are beneficial and stimulating. Old people and invalids are unable to stand these sudden changes and it is a reasonable precaution for them to keep to equitable climates.

Most of us could not afford to spend our winters in the South in order to avoid colds. There is some compensation in knowing that we who are vigorous and active receive a zestful and healthy stimulation from colder weather. Exposure to cold weather while you are active and exercising does not predispose you to a cold. If the body surface is kept warm and dry, you will not only enjoy the changeable weather, but will maintain your natural resistance to colds. Changing your outer clothing as the weather dictates will maintain the necessary warmth. Heavy underclothing is not necessary for most of us who work in offices or homes where the temperature is kept up to about 70°. Children who give off heat rapidly, the aged, and those with poor circulation usually need a heavier underwear.

Wet feet are not harmful as long as you are active and exercising. Sitting in school, office, or standing with wet feet chills the body surface and lowers your resistance to colds. Chilly wind on one who is active and warmly clothed is not harmful; but a draft of air, even though it is not very cold, may chill the body surface of the person working quietly in a warm still room and so predispose to a cold.

Loss of sleep, insufficient rest, and improper food may lower the vitality of the body and make you more susceptible.

If you do catch a cold, go to bed and call your physician. Early and adequate treatment of a cold will not only make you more comfortable but will do much to prevent complications. In a study of pneumonia infection, one half the cases were preceded by a cold. Chilling the body surface, whether by drafts or wet feet, while one has a cold is a dangerous procedure.

Certain rules of health may increase your resistance to colds and if reasonable precautions are taken while you have a cold, you will not only do your part to prevent its spread, but avoid many of the severe complications which may follow the common cold.

IF WE KNEW

Could we only draw the curtain That surrounds each other's lives.

See the naked heart and spirit. Know what spur to action drives.

Often we should find it better, Purer than we judge we should We should love each other better If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives.

See the good and bad within. Often we should love the sinner All the while we loathe the sin;

Could we know the powers working

To overthrow integrity, We should judge each other's errors With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and trials, Knew the efforts all in vain, And the bitter disappointment— Understood the loss and gain— Would the grim external roughness Seem, I wonder, just the same? Should we help where now we hinder?

Should we pity when we blame?

Ah! we judge each other harshly, Knowing not life's hidden force;

Knowing not the fount of action Is less turbid at its source; Seeing not mid the evil

All the golden grains of good, Oh, we'd love each other better If we only understood.

An Interesting Trip; Coburns In Florida; Climate Is Inviting

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Coburn who have made many travels since they made Northfield their permanent summer residence and who closed their home in Mountain Park to sojourn for the winter in Orlando, Fla., where they recently purchased a house, writes a most interesting letter of their travels to the southland and of meeting other Northfield folks upon their arrival, because of the interest of many, we publish his letter. He writes as follows:

As you know, we left Northfield on Sept. 29. We spent a few days with my folks at East Chatham, N. Y. As I did my 80-year-old father good-bye, he remarked that he never expected to live to see any of his children older than he was. On the following Saturday, we drove to Saratoga Springs, where more than forty years ago, I was principal of one of the grammar schools. We saw some old friends of those days and journeyed on to Glens Falls to spend Sunday and attend service at the First Presbyterian church where an old acquaintance of ours, Rev. Dr. John Lyon Caughey is the minister.

The next step in our journey took us through the lower Adirondacks. We passed Lake George, on to Warrensburg, Chestertown, to North Creek and from there to North River, where for several miles the road winds through the mountains close to the upper reaches of the Hudson river. The mountains were clothed in all of their autumnal grandeur and it was beautiful. On to Blue Mountain Lake and to Old Forge where we spent a night. The next morning we drove through a lane of brilliant colors for many miles, going as far as Trenton, N. Y., then to Rome, Syracuse, Auburn, Geneva, to Canandaigua where we spent several days with old friends.

Then our real journey "southward" began. To Naples, N. Y., Bath, to Painted Post where they told us if we had been there at seven o'clock that morning, the fog was so thick the only way we could have gotten through would have been to "shovel." It was then very heavy for miles. We took the route over the mountain, through Tioga, Pa., Mansfield, and at Blossburg, began the climb to the summit. The coloring was even more brilliant than in the Adirondacks and that forenoon's ride through the mountains of northern Pennsylvania to Williamsport was the most beautiful we have seen this fall. We stayed that night at Harrisburg, Pa. The next morning found us traveling through Chambersburg, Hagerstown, to Winchester, Va., where we spent Sunday, the 11th. Winchester, which changed hands 72 times during the Civil War! We stayed within a block of Gen. Phil Sheridan's headquarters and from which he took his famous ride. It was only a block in the other direction where Stonewall Jackson had his headquarters when the "rebels" held the city.

Our greatest day of all, was on the following Monday, the 12th, when we drove over the famous "Sky-line Drive" of 65 miles from Front Royal, Va., the northern entrance, to near Harrisonburg, which is as far as it is at present completed. In and out, first on one side of the mountain and then on the other. Elevation from 2,000 feet to nearly 3,600 feet. It is beyond description. The only word I know for it is "stupendous."

The route we had chosen from there took us up the valley thru Staunton, Va., passing the Manse where Woodrow Wilson was born, over the "Natural Bridge," on to Bristol, Tenn. Then to that beautiful city of Knoxville, on to Chattanooga, Tenn., where we drove to the top of Lookout Mountain where there and on Missionary Ridge was fought the "Battle above the clouds." The view from Lookout Point, just above the Tennessee river is well worth the drive to the top of the mountain. Just below us at that point the Tennessee river makes its famous bend, forming the largest shaped "foot" in the United States; two miles from heel to toe. The river flows seven miles in going from the rear "ankle" to the front, and the land which forms the "foot" was called by the Indians, "Moccasin." In coming into Chattanooga from Knoxville, one drives thru a tunnel under Missionary Ridge and leaving toward Atlanta, Ga., one drives through another, called the "twin tunnels" as there are two passages, each a quarter of a mile long and electrically lighted.

We visited friends in Atlanta, Ga., but avoided the federal prison located in that city.

We reached Orlando on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 17, driving 288 miles that day in order to make it. We found Prof. and Mrs. Gage (who had been living in our home) had completed the building of a fine double garage on their property, in the three

Went To Boston For GOP Jamboree

Many from Northfield went to Boston last Saturday to participate in the big parade of Republicans and the mass meeting at the Boston Garden when John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the National Committee made the address and John W. Haigis candidate for Governor was given a rousing reception. Everyone had a good time though some said they were foot-sore and weary after the big parade. Phil Porter was in the group from here and in the dress of a country gentleman kept the crowd in good humor both on the train and in the parade. The Greenfield paper published a photo of Mrs. L. A. Polhemus and Mrs. C. R. Mayberry seated together on the train fully enjoying the excursion. It was a gala affair and everyone had their money's worth.

weeks they had been here. You should see their "garlow." They are living in it while building their bungalow, the foundation of which is also completed. The garage is partitioned off and they have electric lights, electric refrigerator, electric pump and compression tank which gives them splendid water from a driven well which was sunk this past week. They will soon have a fine home with all the modern conveniences.

Friday, Miss Hills and Miss Mason arrived. They live only two blocks from us. Yesterday, Rev. and Mrs. T. T. Brown drove up to our door in their auto to which was attached their "house trailer." We all went down to see the Gages and there were eight Northfieldites together: Prof. and Mrs. Gage, Rev. and Mrs. T. T. Brown, Miss Hills and Miss Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. Goburn. Rev. and Mrs. Brown went on to Kissingmear to spend Sunday as Mr. Brown was once pastor of a church there.

Florida is beautiful! Rather warm, yes, hot, but it will soon be cooler. From 66 to 70 mornings and reaches about 87 or 88 in the afternoon. But a nice breeze makes it very comfortable in the shade. We have been here a week and every afternoon, the thermometer has reached into the 80's. Our orange trees in our front yard are loaded with oranges and our shrubs covered with flowers. We wish our Northfield friends were here to share with us the beautiful things of this beautiful city.

We did enjoy reading the three copies of the Northfield Press which were awaiting us and are now looking forward to more "news."

In The WEEK'S NEWS

PREPARED FOR WAR
EMERGENCIES — Not quite a peaceful home scene as mother and daughter, wearing gas masks, continue at their knitting during the recent rehearsal of air raid defenses in Paris.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
re-elected President of the United States.

"EVERYTHING — including hair from the neighbor's dog" was found in the dirt filtered from a residence in New York, J. J. Donovan, Manager of General Electric's Air Conditioning, told the National Sales Executives Conference in New York recently. Tiny shreds of steel rails, plaster, coke, petroleum, sulphates, and ammonia were found. Unless it is filtered out, this stuff is breathed into people's lungs.

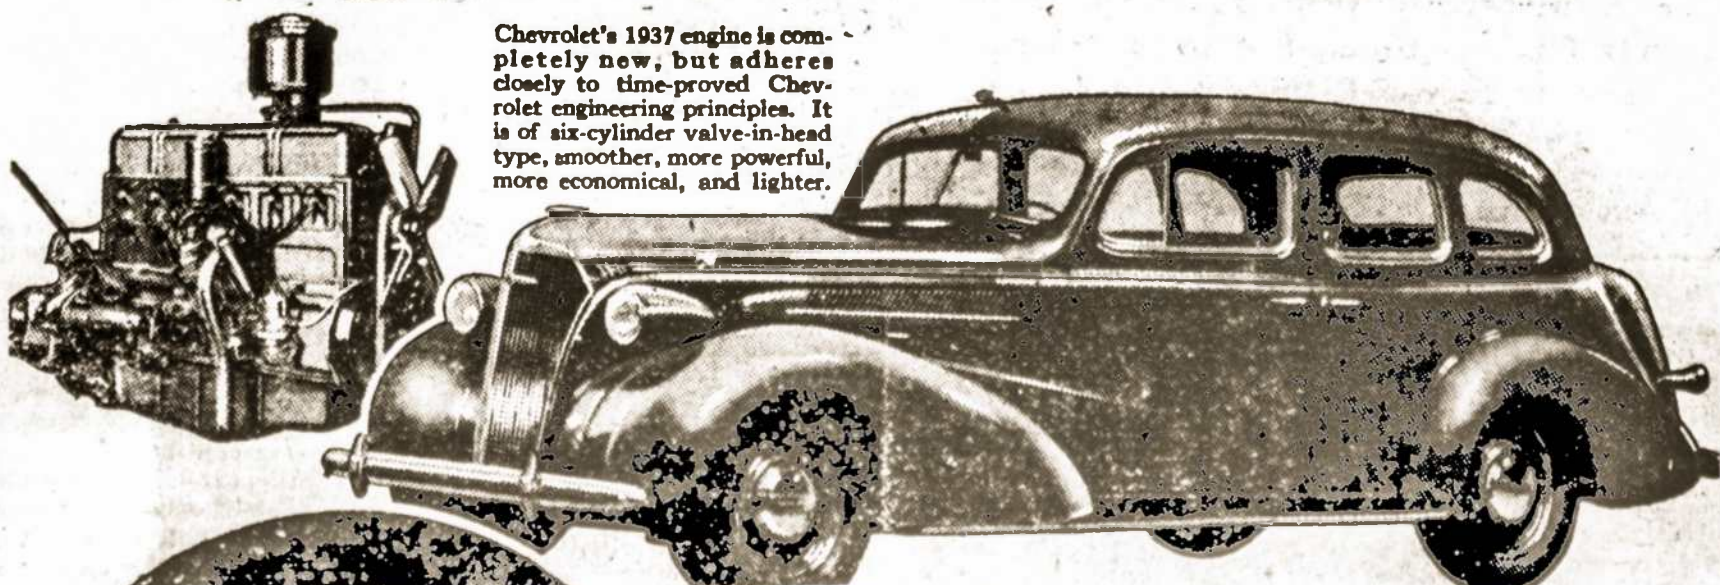

"YOUNG AMERICAN SINGERS deserve to be encouraged," said Mme. Lotte Lehmann, famous grand opera soprano. "Students of every kind need the encouragement of security. I meet so many music students on my concert tours — and wish they could all have the kind of encouragement that is being offered in the Camay $1,000 a year for life contest!"

NEW INNOVATIONS — Some of the 1937 cars show many new innovations. Pictured here is the 1937 Plymouth with new radiator grille. Bigger bodies on new rubber-poise mounts, safety-styling, complete soundproofing, "air-plane" shock absorbers and hypoid rear axles are other Plymouth innovations this year.

TUNICS FASHION FAVORITES — Everywhere milled goes she'll run right into tunics of all descriptions. Ann Sothern wears an unusually flattering one made of wine red wool. An especially new note is the uneven hemline.

Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars

Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proven Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace — the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unsteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Synco-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

The Truth About the Matter. Don't Be Deceived!

Manufactured Ice is Cheap Refrigeration.
It is Safe, Sanitary and Economical.

MANY NEW REFRIGERATORS LIKE THE COOLERATOR

USE A MINIMUM OF ICE, MAINTAINS EQUAL TEMPERATURE, AND PROVIDES SATISFACTORY SERVICE

Refrigerators for manufactured ice cost less than any other kind; they never get out of order; no need to call a mechanic for repairs; no worry about its operation; no anxiousness when the current fails. Manufactured ice in refrigeration is the economical way—the satisfactory way—of providing a good service.

Many users will testify to the small amount of money invested in a refrigerator and to the low cost of its maintenance.

When you are in need of refrigeration in your home, consider carefully, your health, your requirements, and your purse.

Chicago Fire Started D. L. Moody On Career

D. L. Moody's great evangelistic campaigns in Great Britain might never have come to pass but for the Chicago fire of 1871, in the opinion of the late John V. Farwell, life-long worker with the evangelist. Mr. Farwell expressed it this way:

"This baptism of Chicago with material fire seemed to be the John the Baptist to prepare the Lord's way of using a willing instrument to do his own work in wider fields.

"All barriers were burned away. The finest Young Men's Christian Association building then in existence, which had been the apple of his eye, was only ashes. His Sunday School building and his own dwelling were no more, and amid this wreck of his hopes — humanly speaking — he informed our young men that he was going to England as an evangelist.

"Was ever madness more mad? Was ever human wisdom filled with diviner inspiration? say the events that followed this one man's decision when all seemed lost. Thus he was made to lean on the Almighty Arm, rather than the arm of flesh, and he gathered all England to the work of his life with the Gospel trumpet, which took its certain sound from that mighty conflagration which laid Chicago in ashes and made it known to human sympathy in every part of the world."

D. L. Moody's birth in 1837, and the founding of the Bible Institute in Chicago which bears his name in 1886, are being observed with a two-year celebration during 1936 and 1937 known as the D. L. Moody Centenary-Moody Bible Institute Jubilee.

Armistice Day, 1936

Eighteen years ago this month the Armistice was signed and the World War ended. Just what is an Armistice? An agreement satisfactory to the stronger nations? That is about all that was, for the settlement made was certainly not satisfactory to the defeated nation.

But the ironical tradition that armistices settle disagreements rankles in our minds. If armistices are so all powerful, why can they not be signed in the form of satisfactory trade agreements before armed conflicts break out? Do ten million human beings have to be killed before we can reason clearly enough to sign an armistice? Do homes have to be broken, must starvation and disease and pestilence stalk upon a nation before it can force its statesmen to sign an agreement to end the butchery of war? What is this mad war craze that seizes peoples, and makes them seem powerless to defend their rights as free citizens? Are we, as a people, so steeped in the traditional way of living that we believe ways have to be, just because they have always been?

Today the headlines cry of another threatening world war. Can we not realize what such a war would do to civilization? Do we need to be told again that the gas, the guns, the planes of modern science could destroy entire cities in a night, could make the world a blazing hell?

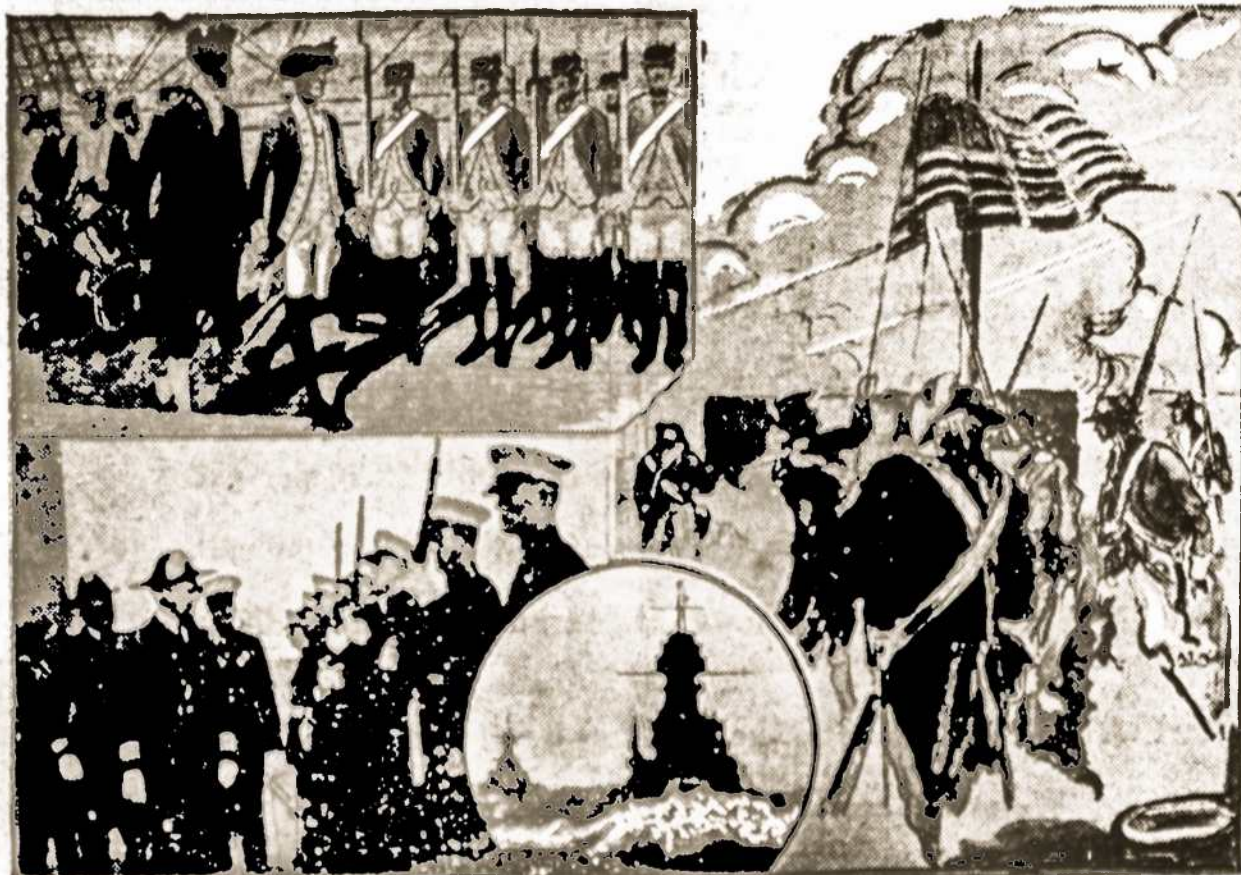

"What can we do about it?" you wonder. We can protest an armament program of a billion dollars a year. We can ask, "Is it not possible to educate a nation to live in peace? Would not this money have been much better expended for peace education than for war preparation?"

Let's resolve that we will not fight another war for private profit. Let's dedicate ourselves to work for peace between nations and for the specific issues that mean peace. Only that way can we keep the faith with the millions who died that we and our families might never know war. —From Farmers' Union Service

Do you know how to roast the meat to achieve the utmost in fine flavor and appetizing juiciness? Season the meat and place fat side up in an uncovered pan without a drop of moisture. Set the dial of your modern automatic gas range to 500 degrees Fahrenheit and preheat the oven; sear the meat at this temperature for 20 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350 degrees and finish the roasting. Or, you can roast the beef at a constant low one-temperature of 350 degrees for the entire period. Either way, you will have the most delicious roast beef you ever tasted.

EDITORIAL

In the midst of the hardest fought political campaign in recent times the high standard of journalism has been maintained by the newspapers of the country. Some mud-slinging has come from the "stump" and been heard over the radio, but on the whole principles have only been attacked, and no personalities.

The election is over and the people have decided their choice of those who shall govern for the next four years. Let us hope that nothing may stand in the way of progress for the nation and that everyone may receive their full opportunity for an honest living. It now behooves us as Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Independents, and others, to move forward in harmony on acceptable measures.

As the cold weather approaches and we start and urge our fires on to feverish heat, let's be sure that the chances of fire are minimized in the accumulation of carbon and soot in the pipes and chimney. Salt may be used in clearing. Dry out about two pounds of salt of medium grade and then spread it as needed over the hot coals of your fire. Open all drafts and let it burn. Fumes of the salt destroy the carbon in the soot and leaves a fine white ash with the chances of chimney fires eliminated.

We are now getting quite used to the experience of having the tires of our cars chalked when parking in the trading areas of our towns. But according to a Judge up in Olean, N. Y., the whole proceeding seems to be a questionable matter. When the "cop" chalks your wheel get out and rub it off. Is it lawful for him to mark your property and if so, isn't it lawful for you to rub it off. If you have the money to test it out in law, you can take the chance and try it once. It is not known that anyone has yet taken it to the courts.

With the recent fall of rain and the continued showers and foggy weather, the soil is receiving its supply of moisture for the winter season. The brooks are beginning to flow and our springs and wells are rapidly filling. The Northfield reservoir is well filled.

The Back Yard Gardener

Some folks tell me that when squirrels gather an extra supply of nuts it means plenty of winter ahead, but I always figured it means plenty of nuts.

Well, I haven't checked to see what kind of a winter we have ahead of us, but I know that I'm making some extra precautions to bring my roses through the winter. The last two years I got rather careless and both times the climbing rose on my back porch got frozen back to the roots, and I don't want it to happen again.

A slightly new angle in protecting climbing roses that I picked up was to bend them over early in October. You hold the canes down with some sort of a V-shaped wedge driven into the ground and then you let the grass grow up around the branches and this gives them plenty of protection. I imagine it's just a little bit late to get much growth of grass, but it's worth keeping in mind for another year.

After the ground is well frozen and you are pretty sure that mice have found other homes for the winter, you can cover the branches over with straw. Evergreen boughs, corn stalks, and similar things can be used, but corn stalks, particularly, tend to draw the mice. It's always a good idea to mound up dirt around the roots 12 or 14 inches so that you keep the roots protected and at the same time keep water from standing. But be sure you don't uncover some of the roots in mounding up the earth.

I have even known folks to take their climbing roses and wrap straw around the canes. And others tie burlap rather loosely on both sides of the trellis work and then fill it with leaves. This makes a rather unsightly proposition but it helps.

And speaking of unsightly things during the winter, I want to say "Amen" to an item by a good friend of mine who writes in the Norwood Messenger. He spoke about the fact that clean-up time in the garden is at hand and apparently he does not like to see withered flower stalks or corn stalks waving above the snowdrifts. As he calls them, they are the "Banners of careless gardeners." And another thing, you had better step on it and get those bulbs into the ground so that early next spring you'll have plenty of color to encourage you, because you know that if you rely on ordinary garden plants you won't get bloom until May.

Readers of the Press are reminded that it is well worth while to patronize our advertisers. It is they who make it possible for Northfield to maintain its weekly paper.
